

Practical Ideas for Giving Out Tracts

By Karen Sue Nyquist

1. Collect the Tracts That You Want to Pass Out - This depends on the kinds of people that you meet or hope to meet. I usually carry tracts for: Jews, Muslims, Veterans, the nearest holiday, and for individuals who look depressed. If I am going to a college, I bring subjects that will really peak their curiosity like, Near Death Experiences, New Age, The Third Eye, etc. If I am going to a hospital or clinic, I bring tracts about the health benefits of laughter or gratitude, mental health, healings and miracles, and about going to heaven, etc.

These are posted on our website, nationtakers.com - Scroll to bottom of Home Page and click on "Resources." - Compiled August 5, 2026 - will be updated as needed.

2. Organizing your tracts before going out to distribute them:

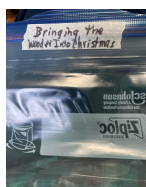

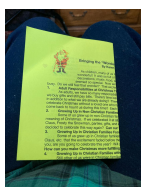

- Fold them in fourths, so they can fit into Christmas or Easter cards, people's purses, people's pockets, and their bags. They are also easier to slip into mail boxes and under windshield wipers.
- Label a quart-size freezer ziplock bag with the name of the tract on masking tape. Poke a small hole in it so it is easy to shut without a lot of air inside.
- Slip 30-40 folded tracts into the ziplock bag.
- Put the tracts into a small box in alphabetical order and place the box into a bag. This way that bag won't fall over, but will stand up on its own. Now it's easy for us to quickly find the tract we want and to pass them out easily.

3. Distributing the Tracts - Many people in the SF Bay Area are turned off to religious materials so be discreet. Say something friendly with a big smile if you are handing them out. Be prayed up then:

- Insert them into birthday and holiday cards or gifts.
- Hand them to individuals, sometimes asking if they want prayer.
- Slide them under cars' windshield wipers, on the driver's side if possible for their convenience.
- Place them into mailboxes. (Don't worry, I have done this in front of mail delivery persons and they did not complain nor try to stop me.)

4. Where can we pass out the tracts?

- Hospitals, doctor and dentist offices; parking lots of clinics, fast food, or other businesses
- Stores, shopping centers, bus stops, on sidewalks
- Along the streets, in our neighborhoods
- On streets next to high schools, colleges, and universities

5. Carry the 4"x6" card - Sweet 16 Soul Winners' Salvation Verses w/ Suggested Salvation Prayer

Use this card to practice, to memorize, or even to use during witnessing if you want.
